

Yan Song Lin

Associate Director of Department of Nuclear Medicine, Peking Union Medical College Hospital, China

Dr Yan Song Lin has a Bachelor of Science and a Ph.D from Huashan Hospital, Shanghai Medical University. She focuses on nuclear medicine for diagnosis and therapy of thyroid disease and has worked with the IAEA in several regional projects on this subject.

She won four National Natural Science Funds in 2006 and 2015 and was awarded twice the Chinese Medical Science and Technology Award. She was awarded the Scientific Research Achievements of PUMCH once, and twice awarded the Medical Management Achievements of PUMCH. She has been involved as one of the key actors in the following guidelines in: Expert Consensus on Radioactive Iodine Therapy of Grave's Hyperthyroidism (2010) and Management Guidelines for Patients with Thyroid Nodules and Differentiated Thyroid Cancer (2012).