

Mr Daniel Brizuela, Head of the Technical Project Unit, Ministry of Health of Honduras

As Head of the Technical Project Management Unit (UTGP) at the Ministry of Health of Honduras, Daniel Brizuela is responsible for leading the planning, formulation, implementation and supervision of health infrastructure and medical equipment projects nationwide. His role includes coordinating multidisciplinary teams, overseeing the design and execution of health facilities, ensuring compliance with national and international standards, and managing timelines and budgets in alignment with government priorities and donor requirements.

He also serves as the technical liaison with international partners such as the IAEA, PAHO/WHO, UNOPS, JICA, and other cooperating agencies to align project objectives and secure technical and financial support.
