

Mr Eddy Moors

Rector

IHE Delft Institute for Water Education, Kingdom of the Netherlands

Mr Eddy Moors is the Rector of IHE Delft Institute for Water Education and Professor of Water and Climate at Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam. His work focuses on water, drought, climate change and stakeholder engagement, with an emphasis on interdisciplinary approaches. He has authored over 100 peer-reviewed publications and is a strong advocate for capacity development to address global water challenges. Previously, he worked at the World Meteorological Organization and Wageningen Environmental Research. He holds leadership roles in international bodies, including the World Water Council, Global Network of Water Museums, and serves as Associate Editor of Environmental Science and Policy.